The Scythians

ALEXANDER BLOK

Panmongolism! Uncouth name, but music to my ear.

Vlad. Solovyov

You have your millions. We are numberless, numberless, numberless. Try doing battle with us! Yes, we are Scythians! Yes, Asiatics, with greedy eyes slanting!

For you, the centuries; for us, one hour.
We, like obedient lackeys, have held up a shield dividing two embattled powers—
the Mongol hordes and Europe!

For centuries your furnaces have bellowed
and drowned the avalanche's thunder.
And a strange tale it seemed to you, the loud collapse of Lisbon and Messina!

The West for centuries has looked our way,
absorbed our pearls into its profits.
Derisively you waited for the day
when you could hold us in your cannon sights.

Now the day dawns. Disaster spreads its wings,
and insults gather to a head.
The day may follow whose sun setting brings no shadow where your Paestums stood.

Old world, before your ancient splendour sinks—
all-wise one, suffering sweet torment—
like Oedipus before the riddling Sphinx pause and consider for a moment.

Russia is a Sphinx. Grieving, jubilant, and covering herself with blood
she looks, she looks, she looks at you—her slant eyes lit with hatred and with love.

Yes—love. For centuries you have not known such love as sets our hot blood churning.
You have forgotten that the world has shown love can devastate with its burning!

Henry Kissinger Is Worried About ‘Disequilibrium’

The 99-year-old former secretary of state has just published a book on leadership and sees a dangerous lack of strategic purpose in U.S. foreign policy

"Mas podemos dizer que de alguma forma somos uma nação excepcional. Somos uma daquelas nações que não parecem ser parte integrante da humanidade, mas que existem apenas para ensinar ao mundo alguma grande lição. A lição que somos chamados a dar certamente não será perdida; mas quem sabe quando nos encontraremos pertencentes à humanidade e quanta desgraça experimentaremos antes que nossa predestinação seja cumprida?"

"Pero podemos decir que de alguna manera somos una nación excepcional. Somos una de esas naciones que no parecen ser parte integral de la humanidad, sino que existen solo para enseñarle al mundo una gran lección. La lección que estamos llamados a dar ciertamente no se perderá; pero ¿quién sabe cuándo nos encontraremos pertenecientes a la humanidad y cuánta desgracia experimentaremos antes de que se cumpla nuestra predestinación?"
